It was a fantastic party. There were so many people.

And of course Ben, a guy from our high school. I personally think he's so attractive, I really like his hair! To be honest, I've liked ^{him} since middle school, but I was really afraid to even say "hello" to him. And finally, yesterday I had a chance to talk to him. I was so nervous, even my palms were sweating!

He was holding a cup of orange juice while I said "Hi! Do you like the party?" He was so nice to me! We had conversations about different topics, now I know we have some things in common!

We exchanged phone numbers and now can talk whenever we want! I still can't believe it! Yesterday was surely the best party of my life!

It was a fantastic party. Yesterday, I and my friend went to Paul's house. It was enormous, with three floors, big garden and a huge swimming pool. Firstly, we came in and started watching Avengers: Final in his home cinema. Then, we started playing Twister. John stayed in amazing poses. After that, we played football in his yard. It was very hard. Everyone played as like a monster.

I think, it was one of the best games in my life. Finally, we jumped into this swimming pool. It was so wet in Paul's garden. I'm very excited and amazed of this party. Everyone was so cool. Activities was excellent. I'm very happy of this party and I'm interested of making parties like that again.

Task 1. Read the text. Decide if the statements 11-19 are true (T) or false (F).

Mesa Verde National Park covers more than 80 square miles of the Four Corners region of the United States, where the borders of Utah, Colorado, Arizona and New Mexico meet. It was once the home of the Pueblo people, a Native American civilisation famous for its amazing cliff dwellings. The best examples of these incredible homes can be seen in the walls of the park's spectacular canyons. The Four Corners is a landscape of extremes – hot and dry in summer, covered in snow in winter. It isn't an easy place to live, but the Pueblo people made their home here and farmed the land for over 700 years, from 600 to 1300 AD. They built complicated 'villages' (their name comes from the Spanish word for village, pueblo) where hundreds of people shared the protection of their strong stone walls. Early European settlers in North America were amazed by their building ability. The Cliff Palace is the largest Pueblo cliff dwelling in the park. It's best seen from above, where the building will leave you thinking about how these people could have built such complex houses. The most interesting of all the houses is the Balcony House. It is made up of 40 rooms, connected by long, narrow tunnels and built around a series of shared spaces and can only be visited with a guide. You have to be ready to climb - the only door into the house is at the top of a ten-metre high wooden ladder! When the Pueblo people lived here, they would have entered their homes by climbing ladders and ropes up the steep cliff wall. Once inside, they would have pulled the ladder into the house in order to protect themselves from enemies.

Exploring the maze of tunnels and rooms, you really start to understand what life must have been like for the Pueblo people so long ago. As you stand at the edge of the cliff, looking down into the canyon below and listening to the silence of nature, it's easy to imagine that you have travelled back in time.

Do you dream of spending New Year's Eve somewhere exciting? Here are some suggestions of iconic places to celebrate New Year. Take your pick!

A New York City, USA

Over a million people participate in celebrations all over the city, but the most famous place to see in the New Year is Times Square. The tradition began in 1904, but the 'ball drop' started in 1907, when setting off fireworks was banned. At exactly 11.59 pm, a large ball, illuminated with bright lights, is lowered down the side of the Times Tower building, and 60 seconds later it stops to signal the end of one year and the beginning of the next.

The ball drop has become famous all over the world, and nowadays there are fireworks, too! It's crowded but cold, so wear a coat, hat and scarf.

B Rio de Janeiro, Brazil

Because it's summer in Brazil, Copacabana Beach in Rio has one of the biggest New Year's Eve parties in the world. Many people wear white clothes to symbolise a new start, and some people bathe in the sea or float candles on the water. Over 2 million people stand on the shore to view the totally stunning fireworks display at midnight. Of course there's also traditional Samba music and dancing to make sure you have a good time!

C Edinburgh, Scotland

Hogmanay is the Scottish name for New Year's Eve, a very important celebration in Scotland. Edinburgh's Hogmanay is a three-day event which starts with a colourful Torchlight Procession, music and fireworks. Then there's a Keilidh, a traditional party with Scottish music and dancing, as well as a pop concert and a street party. At midnight on New Year's Eve, join 80,000 people singing the traditional New Year's song, Auld Lang Syne, based on a Scottish poem and folk song. On New Year's Day, there's the Loony Dook, a (quick!) swim in the freezing River Forth in aid of charity, or you could just go down to the beach to watch!

20. Which celebration doesn't have music? A
21. Which celebration doesn't involve going in water? A
22. Which celebration lasts the longest? C
23. Which celebration has the most people? B
24. Which celebration involves doing something to help other people? A C
25. Which celebration often means wearing clothes of one colour? B

It was a fantastic party. But... Every good ^{experience} story has a "minus" or a "but". This is how that story went.

As usual Jack and I met up at school at 8:00am. We chat for a little while about homework, football games etc. Then he gets a text from Girlfriend. I look over his shoulder and see the message. I was confused. I didn't even know he was dating anyone! He saw the look on my face and told me: "The bell has rung, if you want to know who she is, come to my party at my place at 12:00."

10 hours later I enter his house. We greeted each other and he told me to settle in. I partied for a while. It was so fun! My mind went blank. Few hours go by and Jack comes up to me and introduces me to his girlfriend. It was my best friend Jessica, who I liked years ago. I was so happy for him, at least I tried to be. But on the inside I was crying.

It was a fantastic party. The party was organised because of ending a great school project. Mary and Paul did the biggest part of the work. They were happy and excited, like both of them ~~had~~ fell in love. Practically it was true. During ~~the~~ the work they ~~was~~ realised how interesting their partners are. So Paul had really big plans for this evening, he wanted to ~~to~~ tell Mary about his feelings. His friends knew about ~~it~~ it, and they were even more excited than he was. When Paul said Mary about his feelings, she felt a little ~~bit~~ bit scared, but then she was very happy. After that party Paul and Mary were smiling the whole week!
